CODE OF CONDUCT for the Real Rock Band Program (RRB)

The Importance of Home Practice:

Practicing your music is essential to the band sounding its best! If you need help, or have questions about the songs you are doing, please let your teacher know. If time permits, your teacher will take a moment with you during class, but it's also a good idea to have private music lessons (or a spot lesson) with a music teacher. If you are looking for a music teacher, Be Natural Music has a list of awesome music teachers to choose from but we also like working with other music teachers outside our school.

Students who don't practice will not be allowed to continue in the RRB program. This is for committed musicians only.

The Importance of Good Behavior:

The primary reason we are musicians is because we enjoy music; however, it also takes a lot of work. So please enjoy yourself while giving your teacher your full attention during class. You are also required to show respect for each other in and out of band class. Your teacher cares deeply about your success in music, so let's work together and create great music together!

The Importance of Commitment:

It takes time and practice to become proficient playing in a band. The more commitment and devotion you give to the band, the more rewarding your experience will be. Remember, BNM is writing letters to a lot of celebrity Rock Stars to come to our shows. You never know who may be in the audience. Give it your all. You will not regret it! :)

Song Selections:

When choosing songs for your band, your teacher has to pay attention to a lot of variables, like: appropriateness of the lyrics, the complexity of the music, vocal range, etc. Keep this in mind when requesting songs for your band. Please be aware that we can't always do every song due to the variables stated above. ALSO, we may do a lot of improvising during class – meaning we may try to put new songs together on the fly without informing everyone first.

Communication:

Email is the primary way of communicating with the band and the teacher. This is how your teacher shares new songs, song lists and other important notes with the band class. Please make sure that your teacher has your up-to-date contact information. You can also call your teacher @ 408-828-2735

Teacher's Role:

Your band teacher is a well-rounded musician but because this is a band class, they aren't teaching you your parts, so be prepared and practiced before class. That's why we recommend having a private music teacher outside of class. The band teacher's job is to teach you how to play together, in time and in key. They will also get you ready for live and studio performance, help you arrange music, go over performance etiquette and deal with nervousness. Your teacher will always do their best to encourage and mentor you into becoming a Rock Star!

Highs & Lows:

Sometimes bands don't have good rehearsals or performances and being professional musicians ourselves, we know that this can cause doubt and disappointment for all musicians (and parents). Don't fret! ;) All musicians experience ups and downs - Just take a deep breath and keep working on your musicianship; you'll get there!

Extra rehearsals on YOUR OWN:

It may sound scary, but rehearsing on your own with the band without your teacher will help you create both confidence and better chops. This should take place in the weeks leading up to a concert, or anytime during the year. Again, each musician will have to gain confidence and trust in order to become efficient in a rocking band.

Rehearsing outside the school is encouraged; however, the entity of the band, including the band name that you're enrolled in, is the property of the school. Parent's initials: Student's initials:

Being a Professional Performer:

You will be in many performances throughout the year. It is very important to conduct yourself professionally while performing but make sure you keep your professional demeanor the whole time on stage; this includes between songs. Remember: the audience is still watching you while you're on stage. Have a good time & enjoy yourself, but also conduct yourself in a presentable manner.

Helpful Suggestions for Singers:

You should practice singing your songs to the original track (if it's in the same key and arranged the same). This is very helpful - Karaoke machines / youtube karaoke is also great if you are practicing by yourself. Memorizing your song lyrics is also very important. It's always a good idea to do singing exercises before class and performances. If you are in need of a singing coach, please let us know and we'll get you one.

Helpful Suggestions for Guitarists & Bassists:

You should own a tuner and know how to tune your instrument. A "Snark" Tuner or a "pedal tuner" that is connected between the instrument and the amp would be best. That way you can tune on stage during a performance quietly and quickly. Also, have extra picks with you in case you drop a pick during a song. Lastly, all guitarists should change their strings BEFORE a performance. You never know when you'll break a string! (Having a backup guitar is always useful too)

Helpful Suggestions for Keyboardists:

You should find a good piano sound on your keyboard along with synthesized sounds to play with. A standard organ sound and distorted guitar sound can work well, but please take time to explore your keyboard functions. There are a lot of cool synthesized sounds that could work for different songs. Lastly, playing 5th chords (without the 3rd) on songs that don't have a keyboard part is great for playing along with most songs.

Helpful Suggestions for Drummers:

Make sure your drum teacher has your list of songs so they can help you play the right drumbeat. If a song is too complicated, it's okay to simplify it. If you are in need of a drum teacher, let us know and we'll get you one. For concerts, you may be required to bring your own drum kit to be used for the whole show. Make sure the drum heads are tuned and everything is working properly. The Music Director may contact you about this.

Helpful Suggestions for Horn Players:

Having a teacher and being efficient on your instrument is important. We have a professional saxophone teacher on hand to help you with any issues that may come up.

Helpful Suggestions for ALL musicians:

Practicing with a metronome is always a GREAT idea. A metronome is a great way to keep you playing in time, and helps you measure your skill level. Also playing along with the songs you are practicing will greatly help you (if the recording is in the correct key).

Protecting your Ears:

ALL musicians must carry ear protection to class and any time they play or listen to loud music. BNM supplies basic foam earplugs for your protection, but there is much better protection out there. Protecting your hearing is very important.

A few words about band dynamics...

Being in a band can be challenging in regards to not only the music, but also the emotions that can happen during class, rehearsals and performance. Sometimes we can take criticism. Sometimes we can't. Due to the emotions that can occur during classes, please feel free to talk to the Music Director about ANYTHING! Regardless how big or small it might be, Matt is easy to talk to and he likes to catch things before they build. Constructive criticism is greatly appreciated!
